No "White Christmas" In Eastern Pennsylvania

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 24—There will be no "White Christmas" in southeastern Pennsylvania this year. This information, based on the Weather Bureau report, will be bad news for youngsters, especially for those who receive a sled from Santa Claus, but on the other hand, employees of the street cleaning bureaus accepted the prediction with gladness.
Prediction for tomorrow in Eastern Pennsylvania is cloudy with moderate temperatures, followed by rain and colder at night.

Oakley Garage, South Langhorne, Damaged by Fire

SOUTH LANGHORNE, Dec. 24—A two-car garage with living quarters on the second floor, located on the property of C. D. Oakley, was greatly damaged by fire yesterday morning. One car was quickly pushed to safety, after the blaze was discovered by a neighbor, and the Oakley family notified. Origin of the blaze is undetermined.
Servants' quarters, located above the garage, were destroyed, and the entire building will practically have to be rebuilt, it is said.
Hulmeville and South Langhorne fire companies responded to the alarm.

JUST "PUBLICITY"

BERLIN—(INS)—When an Englishman talks of "propaganda" he means something which is suspicious, but when a German talks of "propaganda" he means something which is positively good, and is merely the equivalent of the British word "publicity." This is the explanation of the difference between the British and German conceptions of propaganda, just given by Herr Osterling, London correspondent of the Nazi evening paper, "Angriff," in an article in his paper.

VIENNA—(INS)—For over a month a fine young Pekinese dog has traveled day and night on every journey of a train from Vienna to Maribor, on the Yugoslav frontier, and back. It is fed by the dining car attendants on the train, which it refuses to leave, and closely inspects every passenger, apparently in the hope of finding its mistress.

Dinner-Party Tendered To Couple Wed 50 Years Ago

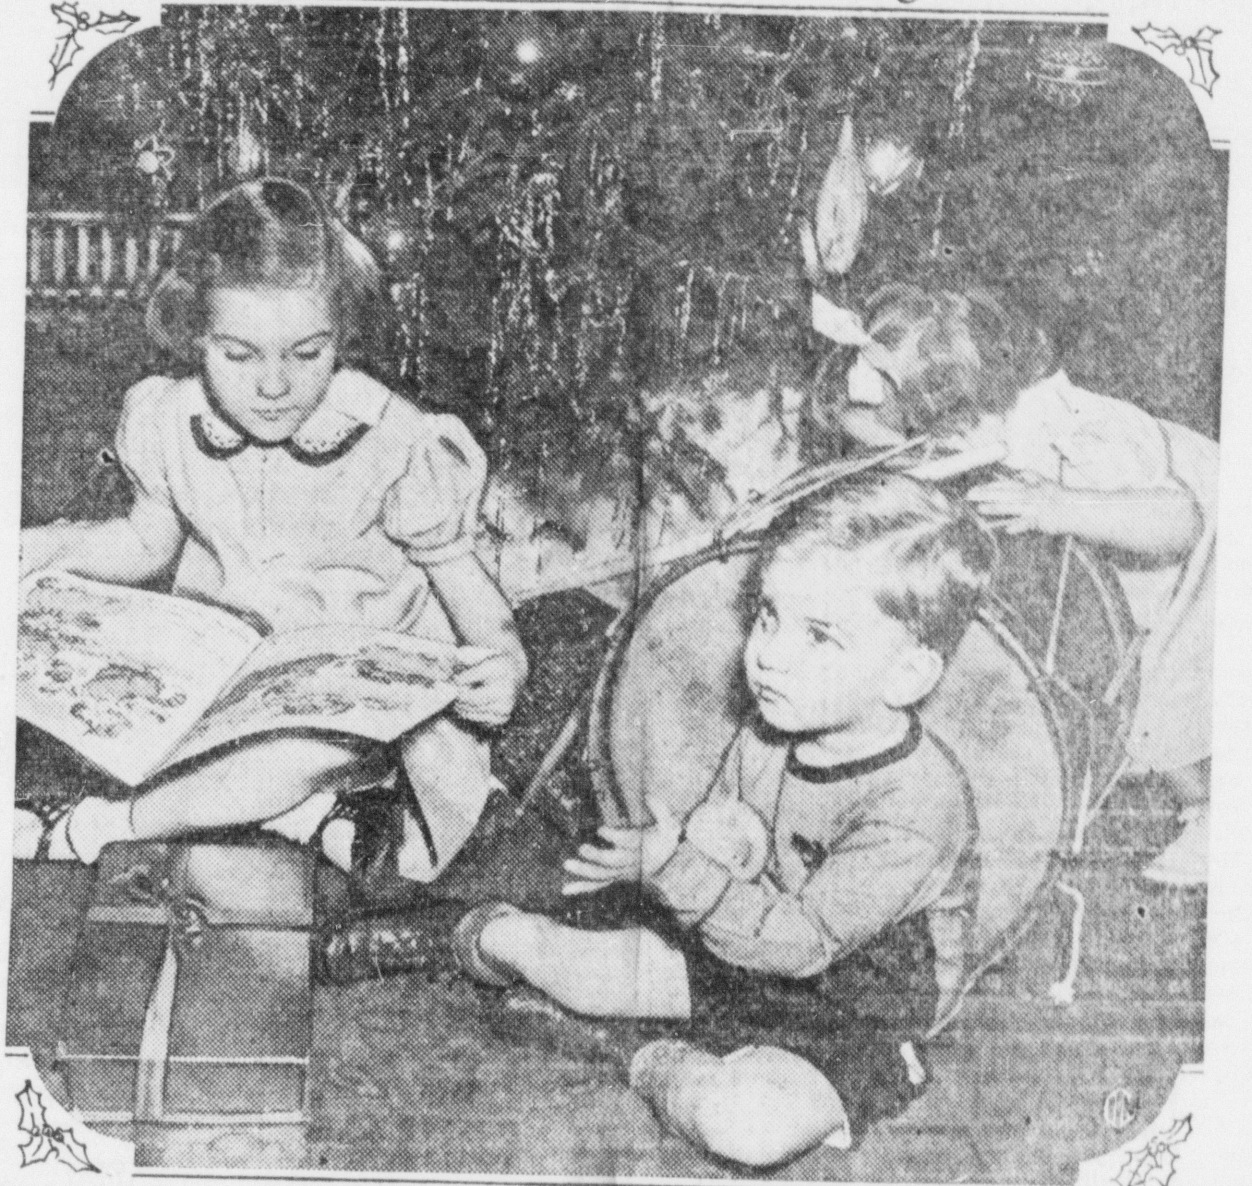

HULMEVILLE, Dec. 24—Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Hemings, Bellevue avenue, observed the 50th anniversary of their marriage at their residence last evening, when a dinner party was tendered in their honor by their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Hemings.
Guests at dinner included: Mrs. Walter Gibbins, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Charles Cox, Philadelphia; and John Cox, Hulmeville. Guests at the Hemings home during the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Edward VanArtsdalen, and Mrs. John Cox.

The couple, who were recipients of numerous bouquets of flowers, other gifts, and messages of congratulations on their golden anniversary, were wed in Williamson, N. Y., on December 23, 1886. For the greater part of their married life they resided in Carthage, N. Y., moving to Philadelphia about two years ago. They have made their home in this borough since May of this year.
Mr. and Mrs. Hemings have five children, 11 grandchildren, and four great grandchildren. Their children are: Mrs. Emma VanSlyke, Rollin and Ivan Hemings, Carthage, N. Y.; Robert Hemings, Rochester, N. Y.; and Lester Hemings, Hulmeville.

On Tuesday evening Mr. and Mrs. Hemings conversed by telephone with their daughter and three sons who reside in New York state, the connection being arranged in such manner that the four in New York could listen at one time to the voices of their parents.

Is There A Santa Claus?

(Originally printed September 21, 1897, New York Sun)

We take pleasure in answering at once and thus prominently the communication below, expressing at the same time our great gratification that its faithful author is numbered among the friends of The Sun.

"Dear Editor:
"I am eight years old. Some of my little friends say there is no Santa Claus. Papa says 'If you see it in The Sun it's so.' Please tell me the truth, is there a Santa Claus?"
"VIRGINIA O'HANLON,
"115 West Ninety-fifth Street."

Virginia, your little friends are wrong. They have been affected by the skepticism of a skeptical age. They do not believe except they see. They think nothing can be which is not comprehensible by their little minds. All minds, Virginia, whether they be men's or children's, are little. In this great universe of ours, man is a mere insect, an ant, in his intellect as compared with the boundless world about him, as measured by the intelligence capable of grasping the whole of truth and knowledge.

Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus. He exists as certainly as love and generosity and devotion exist, and you know that they abound and give to your life its highest beauty and joy. Alas! how dreary would be the world if there were no Santa Claus! It would be like a picture without its colors, like a story without its plot, like a life without its meaning. We should have no enjoyment, except in sense and sight. The eternal light with which childhood fills the world would be extinguished.

Not believe in Santa Claus! You might as well not believe in fairies! You might get your papa to hire men to watch in all the chimneys on Christmas Eve to catch Santa Claus, but even if they did not see Santa Claus coming down, what would that prove? Nobody sees Santa Claus, but that is no sign that there is no Santa Claus. The most real things in the world are those that neither children

QUAKERTOWN TRIO INSPECTS BRISTOL MUNICIPAL BLDG.

Quakertown Council Members Come Here to Get Ideas for Their Project

FAVORABLY IMPRESSED

Visitors Spend Nearly Two Hours Noting Features of Municipal Building

Three Quakertown citizens, members of the borough council of that municipality, came to Bristol last evening, to inspect the plan and equipment of Bristol's municipal building. Quakertown is considering co-ordinating all borough activities in a central building. The three men visiting here last evening are members of Quakertown council, two of them being members of the building committee and the third, chairman of the finance committee. The trio has visited and will visit other communities and will report their findings to the parent body. Those visiting here were: Clarence Peasey, chairman; Fred Crowther, building committee; and J. H. Shoemaker, chairman of the finance committee.

The visitors were met by Borough Engineer John S. Roberts, Jr., and a thorough inspection of the building and its appointments were made. The fire equipment was explained to the men by Clifford Hageman, fire chief.

Every detail was gone into minutely and the men were profuse in their praise of the plan of the building and the manner in which every borough activity is co-ordinated here. They inspected every nook and corner of the building, went into every room in the basement and on the two upper floors.

The police and fire set-up, as well as the council chamber, offices, dormitories and police and fire call systems, here, held the attention of the visitors, who frequently commented very favorably upon the building and its appointments.

Quakertown hopes to obtain PWA funds with which to finance its proposed project.

CHRISTMAS DAY

"And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God and saying:

"Glory to God in the highest, and on earth, peace, good will toward men."

Good will toward men—toward all men, not to any special set or nation or race. Peace not for the favored of God alone, but for humankind throughout all the earth.

Christmas is the day of all days that has won the respect of thoughtful people, regardless of color or creed, because it symbolizes what they really believe in—the fundamental brotherhood of humankind. Its meaning has transcended its origin. It is not exclusively a day for Christian celebration. It can be observed wholeheartedly by men of all religions, and of no professed religion, because in its essence it stands for a common human aspiration.

Does it seem that the spirit of peace on earth, good will toward men is being mocked by war and preparations for war?

That is merely an evidence that men have not yet cast out fear of one another. The number of people who desire war is exceedingly small. But the number who would resist an attack on their country, and who wish to have the means of protecting country from attack, is very large, and is easily made fearful.

The existence of this fear is the real reason why disarmament is so hard to accomplish. It accounts for the cynicism that gradually spread over the world after the enthusiastic reception of the Kellogg Pact renouncing war.

Yet we can not lose hope and faith in the annual Christmas message of peace and good will. To do so is to admit that the human race is destined to surrender this earth, as some have predicted it will, to the insects.

And if we look back not more than three or four centuries, we must see that the spirit symbolized by Christmas has made great advances. Mankind is more tolerant, on the whole. There is today a world public opinion such as never existed until comparatively recent times, and all the while it is becoming more influential.

It will be long until peace and good will prevail, no doubt. But in the belief that this day marks another expression of confidence that they shall prevail, and a rekindling of the spirit of human brotherhood, a Merry Christmas to all!

A DICTATOR'S WAY

Germany has a short apple crop, reports the Berlin correspondent to the United States Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

Under normal conditions this would be encouraging news for American apple growers, but the German people are not free to indulge their taste in the matter of fruits. Formerly they bought lots of American apples and pears. Now they have a Government monopoly that has charge of such matters.

And the German government fruit corporation makes deals according to political policies. It has arranged for larger imports of dried prunes from Yugoslavia and of citrus fruits from Italy and has made regulations that practically shut out American apples.

In his new line, Dr. Tugwell must not be discouraged if results are not immediately apparent. It is a slow time of the year for molasses.

"LOVE'S LITANY" Hazel by Livingston

CHAPTER XXVI
Oh, dear! Another vacuum cleaner salesman. And they talked so long, unless you were really rude, and practically shut the door in their faces, which she never could do.

"No, I'm not interested, I'm sorry. Perhaps some other time," she said in her firmest, most housewifely manner.

"I see. But if you will permit me to demonstrate this article, which is the latest and most up-to-date on the market, without any obligation whatever to you, I can guarantee not to take up more than five minutes of your time."

"I would like to show you the difference between this model of ours, and the ordinary cleaner, which you know can only be used—can only be used—"

The instant she looked from his vacuum cleaner to him, she knew him.

Gene Dubois. Come out of the past, come back, as if from the dead.

She knew him. Knew him in an instant, in spite of the unhealthy flush, the stoop to his once supple shoulders, the swarthy pallor of his skin that used to be bronze.

Her fingers gripped the edge of the thick, oaken door. Her nails dug against the hard, unyielding wood.

"Don't let him recognize me," she prayed with soundless lips. "Please—please don't let him recognize me."

But she had to raise her eyes to look at him. She knew that he knew her. It was no use.

"Christie!" he cried. "Christie Cooper! I come here, trying to sell a cleaner, and of all people in the world, YOU open the door! You—you know me, of course? You haven't forgotten your old friend Gene?"

"Of course not! I—I'm surprised, that's all. I thought you were a salesman. I just thought—"

"I am, or I'm trying to! Well, well, imagine seeing you here! You look swell, too. You always were a swell looking kid, Christie. Haven't changed a bit."

"Oh, yes! It's two years since Dad died, since I saw you."

"That's right. Well! Well, you're sure looking fine. Nice little place you got here. Married?"

"Sure! We all do it—yeh, we all get married, sooner or later. I'll bet you're sure happy, too. Yeh—you look fine."

"Yes, I am fine."

Her heart wasn't throbbing quite so wildly. She wasn't afraid of him now—just terribly, terribly sorry. But why didn't he go? They couldn't talk to each other any more. They had grown too far apart. It was so hard, standing here, groping for meaningless things to say, and the awkward pauses that they interrupted each other to avoid.

"I wish I could buy a vacuum," she told him, confidence creeping back into her voice. "I really would like to have one and if we weren't so hard up right now—"

"YOU had up! Say, if YOU'RE hard up, then what am I? I must be somewhere down in the—"

"No! I mean it. I really am. I couldn't buy an egg beater. But you leave me your card, Gene, and the first time I can afford to buy one I promise to get it from you. There! Is that a bargain?"

He smiled, but it wasn't the old flashing smile. It was the bitter, twisted smile of one who doesn't hope any more, whose life has been beaten into defeat.

"All right, Christie. Thanks."

He turned to go, not even bothering to give her the card. He had picked up his machine, in its green flannel cover. He balanced it wearily in his hands. Looked speculatively across the street to the Woods' house.

Behind the Scenes in HOLLYWOOD

By HARRISON CARROLL
Copyright, 1936,
King Features Syndicate, Inc.

HOLLYWOOD—The latest dark horse for the role of Rhett Butler in "Gone With the Wind" will surprise a lot of people—and, incidentally, is one of the few actors in Hollywood who doesn't pretend he doesn't want the part—William Powell.

Don't get excited for the choice isn't made yet. Probably won't be for some time. But Powell has some strong supporters in high places.

Public interest in casting this picture hits an all-time high. The David Selznick offices figure that, with the letters received by the critics and columnists throughout the country, about 75,000 fans have volunteered suggestions as to who shall play the leading roles.

What is more, most of them are violent about it.

Interesting how motion picture audiences react to the newswires on the ex-king Edward abdication. In a Hollywood theater, Mrs. Simpson, the former king and the new king all got applause. The loudest was for the American woman.

The Archbishop of Canterbury drew scattered boos.

In "God's Country and the Woman", just previewed here, Warner Brothers show how color should be handled on the screen. The treatment is so casual that the spectator is almost able to forget about the color entirely. Yet the picture, an exciting melodrama of the north woods, is definitely enhanced by the medium. One spectacular shot, the dynamiting of a log jam, is a thrill not easily forgotten. Watch for the airplane shots, too.

You Asked Me and I'm Telling You! Bert Lauder, Long Beach. One reason why you see so many big pictures with English themes is their definite commercial value to the producer. The head of a certain Hollywood studio tells me that it will add 50 per cent to the gross of a film if it is a box office hit in England as well as America.

Dietrich's success as a color subject in "The Garden of Allah" is said to have tilted her salary by the amazing sum of $100,000 per picture. Whereas she got $200,000 for making the Selznick film, the star is now said to be asking—and getting—$300,000.

The revolt against beards continues. Following Clark Gable's example in "Parnell", Edward Arnold has decided to eliminate the famous handlebar mustache from his make-up as Jim Fiske in "Robber Barons". Carey Grant, who plays Edward Stokes in the same film, also will be clean shaven.

Here and there in Hollywood... Helene Chadwick, once a famous star, is playing a role in "A Star Is Born". Directing the picture is William Wellman, who was her first husband. A girl in Sweden writes Fred Keating that she wants to come to Hollywood and be Greta Garbo's "step-in".

Mrs. Joe E. Brown has lost 27 pounds on a diet. But please don't ask what it is. Now it comes out that Glenda Farrell's boy friend, Drew Ebersson, formerly was an architect. He is drawing up the plans for Glenda's new home in Palm Springs and for two other houses that she is building in San Fernando valley. Harry Crocker and his bride, Elizabeth Jenks, are off for San Francisco, so he can introduce her to his family. The newest Hollywood twosome are Anne Shirley and Jack Dunn. Her romance with Owen Davis, Jr., is quite cold.

Today's Puzzle: What studio is making its brains trying to find a way to get rid of a temperamental actress who is no longer worth $4,500 a week, or anywhere near it?

Glenda Farrell

Thank you, Auntie Maisie, for that lovely ANTIMACASSAR!

And thank you for the purple crocheted bedroom slippers with pompoms on the toes. Thank the girls for the hand-painted china hair-receiver—and little Benny for the Indian's head on leather. Father thanks you for the embroidered sleeve suspenders too!

It was a lovely box. There was nothing in it we could ever use or want or hope to see again. It was a lovely box—we're awfully glad we won't be getting it this year!

Advertising, more than any other factor, is responsible for the welcome change in Aunt Maisie's gift boxes! The advertisements know what people are going to want, ahead of time—and they tell Aunt Maisie. The result is, gifts you're glad to get! Gifts that cost less in time, money and effort than those the dear old relatives used to send.

Aunt Maisie calls her reading of the advertisements in this newspaper "keeping up to date." You probably call yours "scientific shopping." Whether you're shopping for yourself, your family or for Christmas, they tell you accurately not only WHAT—but WHERE and HOW MUCH and WHY and, if you read them carefully, even WHICH. Let them help you make your budget as well as your gift list truly grateful.

ROSALIND WINS TROTTING HONORS

NEW YORK, Dec. 24—(INS)—Rosaland, petite bay daughter of Scotland-Alma Lee, won top-flight trotting honors for 1936 in a banner season which saw a 25 per cent increase in purses throughout the country, marked gains in attendance, strong influx of new blood among owners and drivers and the heaviest gains in yearling prices since 1929.

The increase in purses, which amounted to a total of $2,500,000 in 1936, is shown in Rosaland's gain of $15,666 over the winnings of the great Greyhound when that noted trotter was a three-year-old in 1925. Rosaland earned a total of $42,378 during the past season, with first money of $18,669 in the Hambletonian State at Goshen, N. Y., on August 12 helping boost the total.

Gibson White, 21-year-old chip off the old block, with his father Ben F. White, noted trainer, is the owner of Rosaland and is the youngest man ever to win the coveted Hambletonian. He had the added thrill of seeing his father pilot his filly to seven victories out of eight starts in 1936. Rosaland's race record of 2-0-1-3, earned at Goshen, was beaten by Margaret Castleton, three-year-old trotting filly when she stepped at Lexington, Ky. in 1:59.4, but the latter mark was made against time, not in a race.

Yearling sales gained $46,925 over the 1935 mark when the annual "Old Glory" sale was held here at Squadron A Armory Thanksgiving week. This represents the greatest spurt in prices since the boom days of 1929.

The 1936 Grand Circuit comprised 10 cities where there were but nine in 1935; eleven weeks of racing as compared with 10 in 1935.

With 1936 standing out as the best season in at least a decade on the light harness turf, 1937 looms up as even a better year with more and richer purses offered for all types of horses, both colts and in the more aged classes.

PERRY TOPS IN TENNIS DURING PAST YEAR

NEW YORK, Dec. 24—(INS)—The outstanding event of the tennis year was the defection of Fred Perry, world's greatest amateur, from the amateur ranks.

When Perry decided to cast his lot with the professionals he left the field wide open but, judging by past performances, Donald Budge, the wiry Californian may succeed to the throne vacated by the black-haired Englishman.

Again we failed to win the Davis Cup. This time the American team didn't even come close as it was beaten by the Australians at Germantown.

Perry Outstanding

Perry dominated the men's singles as he did the previous year by not only defending his own British title at Wimbledon but by capturing the American title at Forest Hills.

The American Davis cup forces showed little. Adrian Quist had little trouble beating Wilmer Allison who faded as a top-notch star, and while Budge managed to beat the aging Jack Crawford, Crawford and Quist defeated Budge and Mako. Crawford also beat Allison and while Budge trimmed Quist, the game meant nothing.

Perry's defeat of Budge in the finals for the American title was one of the greatest matches ever played anywhere. Budge took the first set, 6-2, dropped the next two, 2-6, 6-8, captured the fourth, 6-1, and lost the last 8-10. The slim American was at match point more than once but couldn't make the grade.

Alice Marble scored one of the surprising upsets of the year by downing the defending champion, Helen Wills, 4-6, 6-3, 6-2.

Budge and Meko won the American doubles crown by trimming the defending champions, Allison and John Van Ryn at Longwood, and Carolyn Babcock and Mrs. Marjorie Van Ryn trimmed Helen Jacobs and Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fry, defending champions, for the women's doubles title.

Ernest Sutter, of Tulane, won the intercollegiate title and W. Bennett Dey and William Seward, of Stanford won the doubles championship.

More persons played tennis than ever before in this country and the crowds for the most part were larger but tournament tennis was decidedly spotty in caliber.

FALLSINGTON

Misses Jennie and Lily M. Moon were Wednesday visitors of Mrs. Mae Moore, West Trenton, N. J.

TULLYTOWN

The girls' choir of Manning Memorial M. E. Church was entertained at the home of the leader, Miss Ellen Leigh, Friday evening. The affair was a Christmas party, and the dining-room and table were attractively trimmed with Xmas decorations. The evening was spent playing games and singing. Refreshments were served and gifts exchanged. Miss Leigh presented gifts of scarves, candy novelties and gifts exchanged. Miss Leigh presented: the Misses Virginia, Ruth and Betty Bachofer, Ada Giberson, Loretta and May Eda Headley, Doris Nelson, Gloria Swangler, Jean Barton and Christine Johnson. Viola Schaffer, Lillian Hirst, Doris Wright and Amelia Monti.

EMILIE

There will be religious services for Emiliettes at the Manning Memorial Church, Tullytown, Christmas morning at 6 o'clock. No services at Emilie Christmas Day.

Mr. and Mrs. William Hilborn will have as guests Christmas Day, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hagarty and daughters, Horsham, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hilborn.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Montague and daughter will spend Christmas at the home of Lawrence Montague, Glenolden.

SNAKE TAKES RIDE

SYDNEY, Australia—(INS)—A motor flying party got a shock when a bird flying overhead dropped a tiger snake five feet six inches long, which it had been carrying in its talons, on to their open car, near Coramba, New South Wales. The passenger sitting beside the driver and two others in the back seat were so scared that they jumped out of the car before it could be brought to a standstill. Then the snake, as frightened as the occupants, slithered away.

RECIPES

Raised Rolls

What could be a nicer surprise than home-made raised rolls during the holiday season? I can vouch for this recipe, "since I just enjoyed some warm rolls made from it."

This recipe makes a large quantity, and the measurements may be divided for a small family, or half of the dough may be reserved in a covered bowl in a very cold refrigerator. The reserve quantity should be removed after the second rising, and placed in

Birth of a Cup Defender

Here's the first step in the building of Harold S. Vanderbilt's America's cup defender, which will meet England's challenger, Endeavor II, next summer. These Bath, Me., ship-yard employees are shown pouring 96 tons of molten lead to form the keel of the 2200,000 class "J" sloop.

Snatcher and Avenging Mother

Mrs. Donofrio (shown below with her husband and son, Dominick, Jr.) was reported in an unforgiving mood as Mrs. Anna Strechuk (above) faced a New York judge where she pleaded not guilty to kidnapping Dominick from the front of a New York department store where Mrs. Donofrio was shopping.

a refrigerator, where it will keep for several days.

One cup mashed potato, one cup sifted flour, one cup sweet, warm milk, two beaten eggs, one cup granulated sugar, two-thirds cup melted shortening, one yeast cake, dissolved in one-fourth cup warm water.

Mix the sugar and beaten eggs. Melt the shortening in a saucepan and pour the milk on it, mixing until milk is heated. Add to the first mixture. Add sifted flour, mashed potato and the dissolved yeast cake.

Place in a bowl, cover and let rise in a warm place for two hours. Work in one quart of flour (four cups). Put aside to rise two hours more. (Then divide if some dough is to be stored in refrigerator.)

Form into tea rolls. For clover rolls, use three marble-like balls in greased muffin tin. For Parkerhouse rolls, cut a circle, grease the surface, and fold over like the flap of an envelope.

For sweetened breakfast buns, place one teaspoon brown sugar, a bit of shortening and a few chopped nuts in the bottom of each muffin tin. Cover with a small portion of the dough.

After the rolls are formed and ready in the pans, let rise one and one-half hours more. Bake in a hot oven ten to fifteen minutes. These are particularly delicious for a luncheon. For breakfast, they may be rubbed with a few drops of cream and reheated.

Banbury Tarts

This recipe makes eight delicious tarts and is another good holiday suggestion.

Mix one-half cup each chopped raisins, dates, figs and nuts. Combine with two cups light brown sugar and two tablespoons sifted flour.

Add two eggs, well beaten, the juice of one lemon and the grated rind. Mix well. Cook in the top of the double boiler, stirring constantly, until the mixture thickens. Cool slightly.

Have ready plain pastry, and roll out to one-half inch thickness. Cut in four inch squares. Place a portion of the filling on each square. Moisten the edges with cold water, fold over diagonally and press the edges together with a fork.

Bake in a 500 degree oven eight to ten minutes, or until pastry is a delicate brown.

Ginger Fruit Salad

For a Sunday night supper, or luncheon special in Winter, this salad is always popular. It will serve six guests.

Two large red apples, one small banana, one small orange, one-half cup seedless white grapes, one-half cup chopped nuts, one-fourth cup chopped, candied ginger, French dressing, watercress, few drops lemon or lime juice.

Core apples and dice without peeling. Sprinkle with lemon juice at once to prevent discoloration. Add sliced bananas, orange sections, stemmed grapes, chopped nuts and ginger. Mix lightly with French dressing and serve on crisp watercress.

nor men can see. Did you ever see fairies dancing on the lawn? Of course not, but that's no proof that they are not there. Nobody can conceive or imagine all the wonders there are unseen and unseeable in the world.

You tear apart the baby's rattle and see what makes the noise inside, but there is a veil covering the unseen world which not even the strongest man, not even the united strength of all the strongest men that ever lived, could tear apart. Only faith, fancy, poetry, love, romance, can push aside that curtain and view and picture the supernatural beauty and glory beyond. Is it all real? Ah, Virginia, in all this world there is nothing else real and abiding.

No Santa Claus! Thank God! he lives, and he lives forever. A thousand years from now, Virginia, may ten times ten thousand years from now, he will continue to make glad the heart of childhood.
